The Inland Empire makes up the 13th largest metropolitan statistical area in the United States, having experienced approximately 10% growth over the course of the past decade. Models project that this growth will continue, with the Inland Empire population reaching approximately 7 million by 2046, which would represent an increase of nearly 60% from where its population currently stands.

With an industrial base of over 656 million square feet with a low overall vacancy rate of 1.6%, and vacancy rate of 1.8% for buildings 250,000 SF – 499,999 SF size range within the Inland Empire, the Whitewater Fulfillment Center is well positioned for a company looking to service both the substantial population base currently based in Southern California, but also the larger Southwestern US. With the strategic location at the Whitewater on/off ramps from Interstate 10, the primary east/west corridor in the Southern United States, along with best available features for a state-of-the-art fulfillment center and pricing significantly below less functional options located to the west, this is a unique opportunity to increase efficiency and reduce occupancy costs.
